Axarquía, Sedella

Arriving in Sedella, a charming white mountain village in Axarquia, part of the Province of Malaga in the South of Spain, you park your car behind the church and walk about 200 meters to this totally rebuilt town house.

This property benefits from two entrances from the descending street.

The lower entry brings you straight into a dining-sitting area with a spiral staircase next to the unfitted kitchen and access to an extra room usable for multiple purposes (bedroom, office, private living/tv room a.o. ...).

The spiral staircase brings you to the upper level of the house.

Here you find a nicely finished bathroom and two bedrooms of which one has an exit to the street.

Adding a roof terrace would be a great idea for this neatly finished home.
